One-track minds: Using AI for music source separation

If you have ever stumbled across those online videos of Freddie Mercury singing what sounds like a jazzy reworking of "Another One Bites the Dust" or a very different take on Mariah Carey's "You Don't Know" featuring Mariah's distinctive slurred bass, then you've probably witnessed the work of Demucs, a project developed by Facebook AI researchers.

• Entering the US after 9 months on a green card

So I got my GC in late Dec 2019 and after staying for around 15 days or so, I left the US back to my home country for my undergrad final semester. I was supposed to be done by May end and move back to the US and then join a grad program in the US in Fall (Aug) Due to covid, my exams keep getting postponed and should be done my Sept end. I plan to fly out on Oct 1st week. Less than a week after my exams are done.

I have the following proof as "ties" to the US:

A US bank account documents (was able to open one in Jan) Email confirming postponing of my exams in home country The final schedule of my exams taking place in Sept Admit letter from Grad school Proof that I accepted offer for Fall Proof that I deferred my admit to Spring 21 Proof that I completed a FAFSA form for aid I filed the application for my grad program for Fall 2020. I expect required

3 Additional documents needed for travel to the US on H1B

I was planning to travel to the US on H1B in September. I have an approved valid stamped H1B visa and was wondering if there are any other documents that would help with at the CBP.

If anyone recently travelled to the US on an H1B I would really appreciate your insights on this. Thanks!

2 Current timeline after biometrics for AP and EAD

Also posted in r/uscis

Hi all! We finally received our biometrics appt date for 8/14 (filed AOS docs on 2/24). We were originally going to work with our lawyer to request to expedite the AP and EAD; however with Covid limiting travel anyway... not sure how necessary that is for us at this time. Does anyone have a recent timeframe for how long after biometrics they received these documents? Either expedited or not. Thanks!
